OSLO INTERVIEW

SAM TSEMBERIS, CEO OF PATHWAYS TO HOUSING
"The real challenge is not finding innovative models, it is about changing our politics and values"

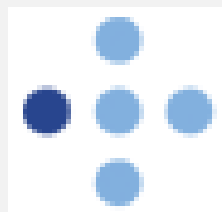

In the build up to the EASPD Annual Conference "A Home For All" in Oslo, we have asked Sam Tsemberis, CEO of Pathways to Housing, some questions about the model he founded -Housing First programme -, and his view of the European social housing sector. Read more

SOME THOUGHTS FROM THE LOCAL ORGANISERS

MAARIT AALTO, PROJECT MANAGER, NORDIC CENTRE FOR SOCIAL AND WELFARE ISSUES

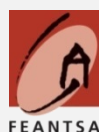

"We believe that, through its welfare system, Norway offers a positive example in regard to social housing, thus making the conference a great opportunity of sharing models of good practice." Read more

TOR VISNES, PROJECT MANAGER, HELSE BERGEN

"I expect all different professionals, politicians and opinion builders in the NGO sector to merge their expertise and motivate all European countries to intensify their efforts in order to implement the goal of "A Home for All" – not only as a slogan, but also "on the ground". Read more
